

Level 1, Lesson 7

Hi Marco.

Hi Ashley. How are you today.

I'm doing well, thanks be to God. How are you?

Fine, thank you. Do we have a lot to learn today?

Yes, we do. Let's begin.

Ok, let's start.

Drink

Drink

Drink.

What are those?

Those are three cups. Who has a cup?

Alexa has a cup. Where's the water?

The water is in the cup.

Alexa drinks water. Debby drinks water. She drinks water.

I drink water.

And I drink tea.

Yes, you drink tea.

And you drink water.

Yes.

She drinks water.

And he drinks tea. Josh drinks milk.

He drinks milk. And the piglet drinks milk.

Yes, the piglet drinks milk from its mother.

Here, Ashley drinks water. She drinks water.

This is coffee.

Josh and Erika drink coffee. They drink coffee. Oh, no—Ethan and Caty have glasses.

They drink with their glasses. This is orange juice.

Melanie drinks orange juice.

This is apple juice.

Hallie drinks apple juice.

Mmm, apple juice, orange juice, tea, coffee, water.

I'm thirsty. I'll drink some tea. Ooh, that is bad.

Adjectives: Good and Bad

Adjectives: good and bad.

Adjectives: good and bad.

Uh, that is bad. Ashley, this is bad. Try some.

This is bad?

Try it.

Try it?

You might like it.

Thank you, you're kind. Ok, maybe. Ooh, that is bad. No.

This is bad tea.

That is bad. But this, hmm, here's some water. Try it.

Mmm, this is good. This is good. This is good water. Try it.

Mmm, this is good. That was not good, but this is good.

Yes. This was bad. That is good. Wait,

Yes, this is good.

I'm thirsty.

You're thir...You're thirsty too?

Yes, thank you.

That is very good. Good wa...

This was good.

It was?

It was good.

It was good. Yes, it was. It was good.

Ok.

Negatives

Negatives.

Negatives. So Marco, are you thirsty now?

No, I'm not thirsty. No, I'm not. Are you thirsty?

No, I'm not. No, I'm not thirsty.

You're not thirsty?

No.

You are not thirsty. She's not thirsty. She is not thirsty.

No, and Marco, are you hungry?

No, I'm not hungry. No, I'm not.

Ah, you're not hungry. You are not hungry. Marco's not hungry. He is not hungry. He's not hungry. And Marco, are you tired?

No, I'm not tired.

Huh.

Are you tired?

No, I'm not. No, I'm not tired.

She's not tired. She is not tired.

No.

Ashley, do you have a cell phone? Do you have a cell phone?

No, I do not. No, I don't have a cell phone.

Ashley does not have a cell phone. She doesn't have a cell phone.

Marco, Erika has a cell phone. She has a cell phone.

Oh, Erika has a cell phone, but Ashley does not have a cell phone. She doesn't have a cell phone. Ashley, do you have a dog?

No, I do not. No, I don't have a dog, but Ryan and Catie have a dog.

Ryan and Catie have a dog. They have a dog, but Ashley doesn't have a dog.

Marco, do you eat strawberries every day?

No, I don't. I don't eat strawberries everyday. But Bryce eats strawberries every day. He eats strawberries every Sunday, every Monday, every Tuesday, every Wednesday, every Thursday, every Friday, and every Saturday. He eats strawberries every day, but I don't.

No, so Marco, do you read magazines every day?

No, I...I don't read magazines every day. No, I don't.

No?

But I do read my Bible every day. I read my Bible every day, but I don't read magazines every day.

Oh, so Marco does not eat strawberries every day. He doesn't eat strawberries every day. Marco does not read magazines every day. He doesn't read magazines every day.

Ashley, listen to this and look. "Do not" is the same as "don't." So, I do not read magazines every day. I don't read magazines every day. He does not eat—oops. He “does not,” and then “doesn't”. Ashley, look—“do not” is the same as “don't.” I do not read magazines every day. I don't read magazines every day. We do not teach English every day. We don't teach English every day. And “doesn't” is the same as “does not.” So, she doesn't have a dog. She does not have a dog. She does not drink tea. She doesn't drink tea.

Ah, yes. So, he doesn't have a cell phone. He does not have a cell phone.

That's right. It's the same. “Do not”-- “doesn't.” Right? No. Cut! Ok.

Ok.

So, it's the same. “Do not,” “don't.” “Does not,” “doesn't”.

“Do not,” “don't.” “Does not,” “doesn't.”

Yes. Alexa reads a magazine. She doesn't read a book.

Elijah eats an apple. He doesn't eat an orange.

Caty and Levi read a book. They don't read a magazine.

The women have babies in their arms. They don't have dogs in their arms.

Jen puts on her glasses. She doesn't put on her hat.

Levi points to his cheeks. He doesn't point to his eyes.

Alexa drinks water. She doesn't drink milk.

Review

Review.

Review.

Let's review, Ashley.

Ok, yes. So, I drink water.

And I drink tea.

Ooh, but, remember...

Bad tea, good water.

That's right. That was bad.

That was bad.

And this was good.

And that was good.

There's no more. It was good.

And, we learned drink. We learned good and bad, and “do not” and “don't.” And “doesn't” and “does not.”

That's right. So, for example. I don't have a cell phone.

Yeah, you don't have a cell phone.

No.

I do have a cell phone. You don't have a cell phone. She doesn't have a cell phone. She does not have a cell phone.

Mhmm. I don't have glasses. I do not have glasses.

She doesn't have glasses. She does not have glasses. I do have glasses. And Ashley doesn't have three hands. She only has two hands.

I know. Yes. I have two hands. That's right.

You don't have three hands.

No, but you don't have three hands.

Yes, remember, I have three hands.

Remember, oh...

One, two, three. I have three hands.

Now I remember.

Yeah.

Marco has three hands.

Let's wave goodbye with our five hands.

One, two, three, four, five.

Yeah, we can wave goodbye.

Wave goodbye.

Goodbye students.

Goodbye students.

A good lesson.

Yes, it was a good lesson.

Ok, goodbye Ashley.

Goodbye Marco.
